A DELIGHTFUL HOUR.

A delightful hour was had by a large audience at the dedication of the Locke schoolhouse on the day we always celebrate, the exercises commencing at 3 o'clock p. m. The hall of the building was prettily decorated by the flag hanging in graceful folds upon the wall back of the desk; with ferns and potted plants immediately in front. The school children, however, filling the stairway, were the most attractive feature in the line of decorative art and decorative nature. Bendix' orchestra gave out its best music while the visitors were making their entrance and being seated. Singing by the pupils of the school was first the. Park Avenue Congregational Church. Dr. Andrew F. Reed of the school board and chairman of the building committee, presided on this dedicatory occasion. The doctor in delivering the keys to Town Clerk Delmont B. Locke said in a happy way "what act can we perform more befitting this patriotic day than this of dedicating the Locke schoolhouse to the purposes of education? The Dr. briefly spoke of the work put upon the building, and the faithfulness with which that work had been done. The president also said that "we are proud of the building and of the school."

Mr. Locke, on behalf of the town, accepted the keys with a pleasant word for the building committee and the Locke school, when he transferred the keys to W. H. H. Tuttle, president of the school board. Mr. Tuttle said in Continued on page four,

Freeman; trustees, J. C. Holmes, Wm. A. Winn, Rev. S. C. Bushnell; treasurer Warren A. Pierce; secretary, George W. W. Sears.

> Following the annual election of officers, came the discussion of the question, "what means, if any, can be adopted by which the present high rate of taxation in Arlington may be reduced?" Wilson Palmer, editor of the ARLINGTON ENTERPBISE, an invited guest of the evening, introduced the discussion by speaking at some length upon this subject which is of such importance to everybody. Mr. Palmer said he knew of but three ways in which the taxes of the man of average means can be reduced. First, this reduction might be brought about by lessenidg the appropriations for public expenditures, or secondly by more approximately placing the market value upon real estate to be assessed, and thirdly, by unearthing here in Arlington the invested moneys now escaping taxation. Mr. Palmer insisted that our appropriations for schools good roads, our excellent system of water works, and indeed for all local improvements, should not be made a penny less than what they now are; so the only two legitimate methods remaining for a reduction in taxes were the equable and just valuation of lands, and the bringing to the light of day moneys now hidden from the sight of the assessors. The speaker said he had recently been informed on the best authority that if every dollar invested in one way or another by Arlington people should be ferreted out and taxed as it should be. then the present rate of $17.50 or thereabouts on the $1000 would unquestionably be reduced to at least $9 per $1000. Mr. Palmer strenuously insisted that it would be just and eminently fair were the landed possessions in Arlington to be assessed at their market value, without reference to the uses or purposes to which the lands in question are put. Mr. Palmer dwelt upon these points and with emphasis. Following the speaker the following gentlemen ably discussed the question, namely : Frank Hodgdon, Daniel Wyman, Charles S. Parker, W. D. Cousens, Fdwin Prescott. George I. Doe and Edwin S. Farmer. "The doctors could not agree," so both sides of the question were represented.

The society voted its thanks to Mr. Palmer for the part he took in the introduction of the discussion. Light refreshments were served.

A HOME ORGANIZATION.

The Arlington Improvement Association is a home organization which has for its object the fuller and more complete development of the town in everything that relates to its material interests. Its membership is made up of our best and most enterprising citizens, who are wide awake in everything that is up to date. This association believes in schools that are worthy of public confidence and patronage, in roads that are of modern make, in a water system that guarantees the public health, in private much loved, the Merrimac, where in head of the state. #### THE HORSE SHOW.

The Horse Show in Boston this present week has surpassed all previous exhibitions in this line. That noblest of the animal creation has shown himself to the best possible advantage during the past few days. But the most attractive feature of the show has been the ladies present, in their Parisian style of dress. A woman of inviting age, and fair of form, is something of a taking object to behold even in her average attire. But fitted out in all that makes Paris the centre of fashion, it is no wonder that the man whose ostensible purpose was to take in the horse show, soon found himself taking in the

Mr. Farmer by way of a seeming explanation said that part of Mr. Locke's land was assessed at one figure while other portions of it were assessed at quite another; but this had nothing to do with the rate upon all the Enterprise. > Wно's wно is the title of a "little big book" soon to be published in Chicago. It essays to answer the ever recurring question (not of the dead) of the living man, "Who is he?"-the woman of the hour, "Who is she?" There is always a curious interest in knowing who is who, even if it be only a modest who. It must prove of invaluable service to the young Miss in determining her flirtations at the seaside and mountain houses and on steamboat, travels. But if genuine and reliable

Among the ancients, the science of music was an application of arithmetic. In a treatise on arithmetic by Nicomachus he tells the story of the origin of arithmetical music as follows: Pythagoras, walking one day, meditating on the means of measuring musical notes, happened to pass near a blacksmith it fails to cure, your money will be reshop, and had his attention arrested by hearing the hammers, as they struck the anvil, produce the sounds which CLARK-KENDALL-At the home of the bride had a musical relation to one another. On listening further, he found that the intervals were a fourth, a fifth and an octave; and on weighing the hammers, it appeared that the one which gave the octave was one-half the heaviest, the one which gave the fifth was two-thirds, the canned beef investigation: Rotten and the one which gave the fourth was three-quarters. He returned home, reflected upon this phenomenon, made trials, and finally discovered that if he stretched musical strings of equal lengths by weights which are in the ratio of one-half, two-thirds and threefourths, they produced intervals which were an octave, a fifth and a fourth. There must have been some stretch of imagination in the cases cited, But it is true that the notes of strings have a definite relation to the forces which stretch them; and this truth is still the groundwork of the theory of musical

"Christ Church in Salem Street, Boston, is known as the 'lantern church. The Italians now make the ruling population in the neighborhood of the lantern church. They do not know much of history, but they are equal to the emergency, and they have created a myth of their own. They see a crowd of people assemble on the 19th of April chime as it plays the national air. And the story tellers among them will tell you that in the old days, long, long ago, 40 Mystic Street, - Arlington, Mass. the people of Boston became very wicked, and forgot God and heaven and hell and the angels and all the saints. And so, one night, the Virgin Mary descended from heaven and hung a lantern on the steeple, that all men might see and believe. From that time to this, according to the legend, the people of Boston have been the comparatively decent people that they are now, with a certain reverence for sacred things."-Edward Everett Hale.

Propably the above legend with a single peg to hang on is a fair representative of most legends, not excepting many biblical legends.

Her Evening Gown.

It is undeniable that foreign diplomats in Washington frequently find themselves at a loss owing to the novelties presented to them by American customs. Even the language offers difficulties.

Only the other day the Guatemalan minister was speaking to some Washington ladies of what he regarded as a remarkable social experience met with here at the capital. He had been invited to an afternoon reception.

"And do you know," he said, "the hostess received the guests in a nightgown!" "Good heavens!" replied the ladies to whom this information was addressed. "Surely you are joking, Mr. Minister!" "Not at all, I assure you," reiterated the diplomat. "It was in her nightdress that we were received-low neck and bare arms!

"Oh, you mean evening dress, do you not, Mr. Minister?" suggested one of the ladies.

"Yes, that is what I mean," admitted Senor Arriaga; "low neck and bare arms, just like the costume for the opera or ball. As may be imagined, the laugh was at the minister's expense. In Washington ladies quite commonly wear evening dress when giving afternoon receptions. - Boston Herald.

Feudalism In Hungary. Inconceivable as the anachronism

may seem to the western mind, the agrarian system of Hungary has not yet issued from the feudal form. The Hungarian farmer of today is virtually a serf, bound to his master, the hereditary owner of the soil which the peasant tills, by the tangible tie of personal liability. The Hungarian feudal lord of today is entitled to 50 days' labor from each male adult who dwells on his land. The seignior is at liberty to demand this feudal contribution at whatever time may seem best to him, with the frequent result that the tenant farmer is employed in gathering his master's harvests while his own crops are rotting after a rainfall or are being consumed by an early frost or suffer damage from one or more of the many possible causes which render destructive the slightest delay on the part of the harvester in gathering the fruits of a year's labor .- S.
